Generally, water levels of rivers within the basin are still below alert stage. However, moderate to heavy rains to be brought by Typhoon Rosita is expected to prevail over the basin for the next few days. Thus, slow to gradual rise of water levels particularly the small tributaries/streams and the allied river systems within the basin is expected.

People living near the mountains slopes and in the low-lying areas particularly areas with poor drainage systems, coastal or high tide-affected areas, adjacent to or along the above-mentioned waterways and the Local Disaster Risk Reduction and Management

Councils (LDRRMCs) concerned are advised to be alert for possible landslides, urban flooding, coastal flooding, flash floods and/or river flooding.

You are hereby directed to monitor the situation and undertake precautionary measures in your area of responsibility (AOR). Likewise, the public and the DRRMCs are advised to take appropriate actions, as necessary.

In order to better inform/warn communities, you are reminded to disseminate these through local/community leaders and through your local media, including community radio stations. Conduct press briefings as often as needed. This local effort will complement and reinforce efforts at the national level. Emphasis should be on proactive actions – evacuation rather than rescue.

Let's untiringly aim for zero casualties.

Submit report on actions taken.
